

Actor's widow with John Fornaszewski

Whip Wilson in one of his films

Whip Wilson and his parents, Lloyd and Sylvia

Whip Wilson lives again in memories

A friendly audience here Saturday helped Old Six Mile Historical Society honor Granite City's Roland Charles Meyers, better known as Whip Wilson of cowboy movie fame.

Of the 10 top movie cowboys, he was ranked sixth in a number of polls, it was said. "Crashin' Thru," his second film, was shown at the Harold Brown Recreation Center, enabling the audience to see him use his whip with great gusto to right wrongs, bring peace and justice, and then ride off on his beautiful horse, "Rocket."

The crowd welcomed Mr. Monica Meyers, the actor's widow, to Granite City. Several members of the Meyers family were present to welcome her as well. These included Mr. and Mrs. Earl Liesmann, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fisher, and Mrs. Lucy Pruitt, relatives of Whip Wilson.

Monica told of Whip's love for Granite City and his satisfaction in returning to visit. The last time was when President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963.

Whip had gone to school here and worked a short time at Granite City Steel, where his father also worked. His father, Lloyd Meyers, was a carpenter and built five houses in Granite City.

On his last visit, Whip filmed all the places he'd lived a chronology in film of his life here — but this film was lost. However, his effort showed his appreciation of his life in this area, Monica told the gathering.

When asked if he ever missed when whipping a button off her blouse as they presented a comedy "Whip tease" she said that if he had it would have been the last. But he never did, so accurate was his eye-hand coordination. She had perfect confidence in his control of the big whip.

Several books were exhibited, including the original script for "Crashin' Thru."

There will be a special exhibit of Whip Wilson's collection of whips, books, pictures, etc., as well as Monica's book on their life together at the Old Six Mile Museum on its 1987 opening day May 16, during a craft show.

Mickey Carroll entertained the crowd with his wit and charm from the moment he entered the room. Before the showing of the "Wizard of Oz," he told of working with Judy Garland. They were 15 and 17 at the time. He was the Munchkin coroner who announced that the "wicked witch is dead."

He told how the special voice effect was achieved by speeding up his words. He renewed the memories of the older members of the audience with the Phillips Morris ad, and captivated the younger audience with his dancing and jokes. He admitted to being 68, but "still a boy at heart."

He was the first Mickey in the Little Rascals films. He also appeared with Abbott and Costello in movies, traveled with several presidents and met England's king and queen.

A long line received autographed pictures from him. Both celebrities were given an ovation by the audience and expressions of gratitude for giving their time to attend the historical afternoon.

The Historical Society presented each of them with an Old Six Mile map, the Society's book, "Clippings and Chatting," and the treat of the day, popcorn balls and soda. Both made contributions to the Museum.

It was recalled that Whip Wilson, born in 1911, made 28 motion pictures. Monogram Studios gave Roland Charles Meyers the name of Whip Wilson, and his wife the name Monica Lane. She appeared with him at times in the films. His first movie contract was signed in 1948.

Whip and his wife traveled to Mexico, Canada and Europe with the Air Force on personal appearances.

He enjoyed cowboy films, which used his dexterity and skills, but he longed to sing. His voice was of operatic quality. He almost got the chance to sing in Cecil B. DeMille's famous film, "The 10 Commandments."

However, his agent died before the arrangement was completed. The filming was delayed two years, and a speaking voice was used instead.

His horse was used in the films and in the Rose Parade. The horse was at first called Silver Bullet, but this name was used by Roy Rogers' dog, so they held agent for children to rename the horse. A bicycle was the reward to the child with the winning entry. "Rocket" was the name given this white Appaloosa. The horse was gentle and liked children.

Many of his fans gave Whip a kick in films and persuaded him to join the Masonic Lodge in North Hollywood. Wilson became a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He was a chanter in the lodge.

Wilson was a fine gentleman, it was recalled, and well lived up to the moral clause for Western stars — no drinking or smoking in front of others, especially children, and no hanging out in bars.

Some may remember his picture on Dixie Cup ice cream lids. He didn't get paid for them. Wilson also worked as an engineer with North American Aviation. He worked there on the "Minute Man" missile.

His last days were spent at "Whip Wilson's Happy Holiday House and Gift Shop" at Lake Tahoe, Calif. He did not get to be there long, for in 1964 he died of a heart attack. He is buried in Sunset Hills Cemetery, Edwardsville.

John Fornaszewski, Granite City band leader and music store owner and a collector of Whip Wilson memorabilia, was master of ceremonies.

NEUROTROPHIC ULCERS

A skin lesion that appears flaccid, crateriform and oval in shape requires prompt treatment. The edges of this skin ulcer usually become wall-like. Cracking occurs. Infection could spread.

Such an ulcer is virtually painless. Loss of sensation, in the later stages, may penetrate deeper. There may be destruction of the dermal layer, inflammation of tendon, synovial sheaths, bones and joints.

Podiatric treatment includes weekly debridement of the wound edge to prevent going over the ulcer before the under-surface has a chance to heal. Antibiotics, antiseptic soaks, whirlpool therapy and custom-prescribed footwear offer help. Or those cushion bony prominences.

This condition is commonly associated with diabetes. Any foot blemishes should be promptly treated by your podiatrist to guard against more serious neurotrophic ulcers.

District should cooperate

The District 9 Board of Education should join the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Everyone agrees this area needs redevelopment and new business. That's why area businessmen and various governmental bodies are dues-paying chamber members. They know that money, not just good intentions, needs to be invested in order to earn dividends such as increased tax revenues, profits and population.

Like everyone in the Tri-Cities Area, the school district is influenced by the ebb and flow of the area's economy. A healthy, growing economy provides a solid tax base for the district. Problems come with lack of funds.

The district should do its part and tangibly share in the area's future by joining the chamber. The $250 monthly fee will help bolster economic improvement efforts and display the district's willingness to cooperate in the worthy goal of a productive Tri-Cities Area.

We can think of no more worthwhile investment for the school district than an investment in the communities it serves.

Dump isn't area's destiny

The Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties area was a dumping ground for gangsters' victims in the gun-toting Prohibition era. It is also in danger of becoming known as the bl-shte region's trash dump, but the three counties appropriately are taking steps to alter that destiny.

Haulers now are crowding out bridges and highways while bringing many hundreds of tons of garbage daily from Missouri. The trucks are relatively unobtrusive, but their impact is being felt.

It is not just a question of whether the county ought to pay the same county and state truck "tipping" fees that Illinoisans pay to meet landfill inspection and rule enforcement costs. They should pay the fees, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency decided this week.

The key issue is whether they ought to be transferring this vast volume of undesirable material from an environmentally strict state to one that has been much more permissive.

Speakers at the February prayer breakfast in Granite City focused on this topic, and their words were jolting. They said the kinds of waste accepted in Illinois may be far more hazardous than had been visualized originally, and the problem is aggravated by imprecise definitions and vague categories.

The potential for groundwater contamination and other ills is said to be high, particularly in our bottomland area. Costly remedial programs, to be paid for by Illinois and Metro East taxpayers, would be likely in the vicinity of abandoned dumps; the owners are responsible for only the first three years after a site is filled.

County board environmental committee leaders were on target with their comments this week. Richard Worthen of Madison County said, "I don't feel they have to dump in Illinois. You can work with one 'given' when dealing with landfills. That is, that landfills leak." Frank Boyne of St. Clair County said, "We are the dumping ground of St. Louis right now, but we are not going to let the landfills control our counties."

A solution will be sought, bolstered by a study financed by the fees and by local governments and the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

In addition, it would seem to be important for the IIEPA, participating counties and Illinois legislators to confer on ways to strengthen existing laws and regulations. To defend ourselves, perhaps we will need to pattern this state's policies after those of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

Metro East's many positive roles — including residential, industrial, commercial and recreational — must not be ignored and jeopardized in the trashy way they have been ignored.

Amerika made valid point

Whether the ABC-TV mini-series "Amerika" was worth 14½ hours of viewers' time is being debated. We won't attempt to judge its artistic merit. If it put you to sleep, fine; if it kept you riveted on the edge of your easy chair, that's fine, too.

What we do say is that the many verbal attacks on fictional "Amerika" — as somehow being un-American or unforgivable fail to sway us. Whether entertaining or not, whether sufficiently sugar-coated or not, it contained some medicine that it won't harm any of us to absorb.

Its message was that life as a Soviet satellite would be and is in eastern Europe and elsewhere — a bleak, frustrating existence with low living standards, long lines to obtain necessities, stifled freedoms, pervasive "informing" on the alleged sins of one's relatives and neighbors, and other strictures on the way of life, the freedom to travel, the right to move, the privilege to change jobs, etc. taken for granted by most Americans.

As columnist William Buckley put it, there is logic in liking Russians (Baryshnikov, Rostropovich and Solzhenitsyn) but seeing the difference between them and Soviets (Stalin, Andropov and Gorbachev). The willing instruments and enforcers of Soviet policies are intent on maintaining a totalitarian state and extending its control worldwide. The population of Soviet prisons (and "mental hospitals" for dissenters) reached 12 million people at its peak.

Soviets' crackdown on independent thinking is not fictional. Millions of Russians were killed by their own government during Stalin's reign.

Barbarities shown in "Amerika" are routinely committed in Russia and other Soviet-controlled areas. Why shouldn't television remind free people from time to time of the many differences between a democracy and a dictatorship? Each new generation needs to learn this and, we hope, not the hard way.

Crime stories violate rights

To the editor: The ("Mandarin") article states that each week someone asks the newspaper not to print the names of someone charged with a crime because personal tragedies are hard for them to deal with.

Jobs, social status and physical health are jeopardized by printing arrest reports.

First, I believe that printing names of people that commit petty crimes violates a person's rights and also sometimes articles in the paper are of no interest to the public.

Why is it important to (publish) misdemeanors such as stop sign violations, small damages to property, license suspensions, etc. etc.?

Police news should be used to inform people of crimes of a more serious nature.

Annexation will increase taxes

To the editor: I moved to Chouteau Township to get away from high taxes and other city expenses and this is just the way I like it. I have no desire to be annexed into any city. I'm sure I speak for most of the folks living out here.

We are all aware why Granite City wants to annex the area. Do proponents of this idea think we are so stupid that we don't know they want our tax dollars and our help with their sewer break bills and money problems?

Why didn't they call all residents instead of just certain areas? Well, we are aware of that scheme also.

Why do some so-called wise politicians under the guise of progress always start stirring up something to upset other folks? We know they are only after more tax dollars. Can you imagine what would happen to our property taxes if they would succeed?

To you who want to annex us, let us be; and we'll take care of our own business. We don't need your help or advice or your problems.

Retired folks and young folks out of work are having enough trouble getting by, and I'm sure big bills would only add to their problems.

I wish the person who has been calling some folks would call me. I would enjoy telling him what I think.

We are also aware that Granite City can grow no farther in any direction, so we know why they need our area.

Let's let them know once and for all exactly how we feel. Let them know we like living exactly the way we are and want no part of annexations to any city.

Will Medicare fill our needs in the future?

To the editor: Why has Medicare coverage for nursing home care in Illinois deteriorated to the point where most patients receive little or no assistance?

That is the pressing question (as concluded in a) ... comprehensive survey recently conducted by the Illinois Health Care Association (IHCA), the leading long-term health care association in the state.

The complete answer to this dilemma would fill a great deal more space ... Likewise, the issues at stake here affect a much broader audience than just those patients requiring nursing home care. Their families, the medical community and society as a whole must deal with the increasing and far-reaching problems created when the elderly cannot secure qualified skilled nursing home services.

DAVID R. SECKMAN, President, Illinois Health Care Assn.

Illegal aliens have a laugh

There is a new folk hero in South Texas.

And the new hero is an outlaw.

He is Los Alambrados, "the fence jumper."

That's right — the new brave and cunning hero of song and cinema is the illegal immigrant.

For The Wall Street Journal, Matt Moffett recently spent days in Texas listening to Spanish-language radio stations. Listening to recordings of a group called Los Ilegales (the illegal aliens) and listening to recordings about La Mijra (the immigration officers, always villains) and about Los Ramaleros (the brave and cunning who hide in the bushes).

He says the ballads sound like the sort of thing you'd hear only on a police radio band.

At the same time, Mexican filmmakers export movies and video cassettes about illegal immigration to the United States.

A Spanish-language newspaper in Houston features a comic strip called "Zopilote and Mr. Mijra." Zopilote is a luckless illegal alien who is always running from the Immigration Service.

There is an appetite in the barrios of Chicago also for such Spanish-language recordings as "Vivian Los Mojados" (hooray for the wetbacks!).

Hollywood makes films about illegal immigration in which immigration officers become smugglers.

The recent Simpson-Rodino law says employers who knowingly employ illegals may be prosecuted. A play in heavily Hispanic North Houston is called "The Simpson Law Doesn't Bolster Me."

More ominous, perhaps, than open antagonism from the new polarization of culture is that the illegals laugh at the establishment.

Who's "native" to Texas has always been in dispute but what's different now is the degree to which lawbreakers are honored.

Texas is hurting. With NASA on hold and oil ranching depressed, Texas are hurting. No state's budget is more desperately pinched. More unproductive mouths to feed, Texas does not need more illegals.

Though depressed, illegals are better off in Texas than they are south of the border.

Is Reagan to be believed?

President Ronald Reagan acknowledged Tuesday in public that he could not remember if he gave advance approval of the first shipment of arms to Iran in August 1985, despite the fact that he has already stated he didn't OK the shipments. Do you believe him or do you think his lapse of memory is part of a cover up of the arms deal that has plagued his administration?

Robert Naumann, Columbia, Ill.
"I don't believe him. I think it's part of a cover up."

Les Thompson, Granite City
"No. I personally think it's part of a cover up. I don't believe you can forget something that important. If you do, you shouldn't be in such a high office."

Jim Harris, Granite City
"He said at first he didn't do it. Now he says he doesn't remember. At his age it's possible. But I still don't think they're telling us all of it."

A HYDRAULIC TOOL is used by Madison volunteer firefighters to pry open the driver's door of a pickup truck involved in a two-vehicle accident on McCambridge Avenue in Madison last week.

Collision on McCambridge

An auto and pickup truck collision at Sken Street and McCambridge Avenue, Madison, resulted in injuries to both drivers at 7:55 a.m. Feb. 19.

They were taken from the scene by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where they were treated and released. Betty James of 1300 Klein St., Venice, was driving west. As she crossed McCambridge, there was a crash with the southbound truck of David Lane of 1622 Minerva Ave., Granite City. Both drivers said they did not see each other.

BRICK DAMAGES SQUAD CAR

A vandal threw a brick through the rear window of a police car while the vehicle was parked in the 600 block of Jefferson Avenue, Venice, Patrolman Dan McKinney reported Feb. 16.

MAN FLEES WITH WEAPON

James Myles, 802 Bissell St., Venice, said he was sitting in a friend's car in the 1100 block of Bissell when a man got into the vehicle, picked up a .45 caliber automatic pistol which was laying on the front seat, and ran away. He chased the thief, but couldn't catch him, Myles said.

LEATHER BRIEFCASE TAKEN

Mike Randall of 35 Fairway Estates told police Feb. 12 a burglar took a leather briefcase, containing insurance papers, from his auto parked behind 3216 Nameoki Road.

DRIVER INJURED IN AUTO

William Mitchell of Fairmont City told Granite City police Feb. 19 a car pulled in front of him at Illinois 162 and Maryville Road. The driver and passenger in the car approached the driver's side of Mitchell's auto. They then grabbed and shook the window, shattering it and causing Mitchell's face to be cut.

4 HURT IN CAR-TRUCK COLLISION IN VENICE

Richard T. Fleetwood, 28, of 1636 Olive St., was injured Feb. 14 when his auto, heading north on South Fourth Street, Venice, collided with a southbound tractor-trailer operated by James E. Lawson, 55, of Jerseyville.

Also hurt and taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center were three passengers in Fleetwood's auto, William Brannan Jr., 30, of 2102 Nevada Ave., Jerry T. Gibson, 32, of 2020 Missouri Ave., and Robin Fleetwood, 1636 Olive St.

Richard Fleetwood, who also went by ambulance to the medical center, was charged with improper lane usage and illegal transportation of alcohol.

Religious play on Wesley

"The Man from Aldersgate," a one-man play about 18th century England's evangelist and reformer, the Rev. John Wesley, will be performed by actor Roger Nelson, Thursday, March 5, at 7 p.m. at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Religious Center.

Wesley, the founder of Methodism, traveled around Great Britain on horseback, preaching 42,000 sermons. Nelson, who has presented "The Man from Aldersgate" at churches, colleges and military bases in more than 400 performances around the world, uses a monologue to communicate Wesley's joys, sorrows, triumphs and good humor as he defied mobs, cast out demons, and won thousands for the Kingdom of God. Nelson also has appeared on the New York stage, in films, and in several national television commercials. His performance at the SIUE Religious Center has been arranged by the Rev. Mark E. Slaatte of the Wesley Foundation at the Center. Admission to the presentation is free; a free-will offering will be accepted during the performance.

Additional information is available by calling Rev. Slaatte at 692-8246.

Financing plan for King Bridge given

The city of St. Louis has added another financing piece to the big puzzle that it hopes will put the Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge back together.

Eventually, the bridge is to be repaired and new ramps built down to connect Interstate 70 to the bridge on the Missouri side of the Mississippi River. It already connects to Interstate highways in Illinois.

Last week, former mayor John Poelker explained the complicated financing package to an aldermanic committee.

The Board of Aldermen approved a $12 million appropriation from the Transportation Trust Fund for the city's share of funds to buy, repair and restore the bridge.

Poelker said city funds will be used after outstanding bonds on the bridge are redeemed and the bridge transferred to the Bi-State Development Agency, Madison County contributes $250,000 and St. Clair County contributes $500,000.

"It is necessary for this bridge to be repaired and link with I-70 so traffic can bypass the already crowded Poplar Street Bridge," Poelker said.

East St. Louis has agreed to the plan and will relinquish ownership of the bridge to consummate the deal, he said.

Federal funds will be sought to pay for the infrastructure to be built on the Missouri side, he said.

"Illinois will pay to repair the bridge and maintain it until it can be put into the interstate highway system," Poelker said.

The Martin Luther King Corporation has been formed to acquire the bridge from bondholders. A recent decision by Circuit Court Judge Jean Hamilton said all bondholders must sell.

"We have gotten as good a deal as we will ever have," said Ronald L. Thompson, president of the King Bridge Improvement Corporation. "If this deal fails, I don't know what will happen and if we will ever have the chance to get the bridge operational again."

2 Corinthians 6:18... "I will be their God, and they shall be my people."

The wisdom of God is unfathomable. He truly is in control of all His creation. As He administers His power throughout the universe He still ministers to mankind personally.

Think of this! God will be OUR God and WE shall be HIS children. He can talk to us. Bless us. Comfort us. Our religious organizations, our churches, our traditions, can never give God to us nor give God away from us.

Do not misunderstand me, we need our organizations, we need our churches. They help us and we help them, however, God dwells IN HIS PEOPLE. He wants to dwell in you.

Why not take time now to pray, ask Him to touch your heart, your life, and be ready to experience His presence.

Your Heavenly Father says ask, and it shall be given.

Why not do it today?

Nominations open for Women of Achievement

The tradition of honoring women who have dedicated much of their lives to improving their communities is being carried forward this year by the Suburban Journals and KMOX Radio.

The 1987 Women of Achievement will be honored at a May 6 luncheon. The 10 women will be selected from nominations suggested by readers of the Journals and KMOX listeners.

Nominations are now open and should be sent to Women of Achievement Committee, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, 63131. Nominations must be received no later than Friday, March 6.

Many letters of nomination were sent to the Globe-Democrat. It is not necessary that these women be renominated.

The names of the Women of Achievement will be announced in early April. Selection of an honoree is not determined by the number of nominations received, nor is an elaborate presentation necessary. Many women over the years have been chosen on the basis of a single nomination.

Each nomination should include full and specific information. Supporting letters from agencies, business firms, schools, churches or any other organization in which the nominee is active are helpful.

A nominating letter should be typed, if possible, or written with careful attention to legibility. It should be signed and include the nominator's telephone number in case the committee needs additional information.

It should also include the address and telephone number of the woman nominated.

Business expo scheduled

The Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Growth Association's Business Expo committee announced a record-breaking return on its telephone blitz that was conducted during the last month.

More than 60 percent of the booths have already been reserved for the 1987 Business Expo. The number of exhibitors per category is being limited to create a more interesting mix of displays. March 1 is the last day to qualify for major savings on a booth.

The Business EXPO will be held at the St. Louis Regional Airport on April 10, 11, and 12. The planning committee has scheduled a variety of entertainment throughout the three days. Some of the highlights provided by the corporate sponsors Owens-Illinois, Amoco and Shell, include a local jazz band, Fred Bird, a soccer clinic, and a St. Louis Football Cardinals sports celebrity who will be available for autographs.

A $K Fun Run sponsored by Wood River Savings & Loan will be held on Saturday. Saturday evening, Germania Federal will be sponsoring the KUSA Road Show.

Alan Barkledge will be flying in on Sunday in The Little Yellow Thunder helicopter. For more information, the number is 258-0396.

Judge orders Pat Quinn exonerated on all charges

A judge Monday entered directed verdicts of not guilty on all charges against lawyer Robert "Pat" Quinn of Godfrey.

Associate Judge Charles V. Roman ruled on the conclusion of the state's case there was insufficient evidence to support conviction on any of the charges. Quinn had been on trial in Edwardsville on charges of conspiracy to commit bribery, conspiracy to commit official misconduct, bribery and subornation of perjury.

The state contended Quinn, in cooperation with others, obtained improper reductions of property assessments and influenced his secretary, Beverly Delaney, to lie in testimony before a grand jury.

Quinn's attorney, Ben Allen, said the prosecution "has not even been in good faith."

Allen argued for directed acquittals. Quinn's attorney, Ben Allen, said the prosecution "has not even been in good faith."

Allen said the state failed to present any direct evidence that Delaney lied in her testimony or that Quinn conspired with any of the other alleged conspirators.

Special Prosecutor Bruce D. Locher said he had shown that Delaney had said she was not reimbursed by Quinn for a $200 donation she made in August 1983 to a legal defense fund for James W. Barton, then Madison County supervisor of assessments.

An officer of the 1st National Bank in Wood River testified under subpoena Monday morning regarding bank records of a $200 check written on the defense fund on Aug. 19, 1983, and a $200 check written on an account of Quinn to Delaney the same day and deposited to her account Aug. 22, 1983.

Locher said the evidence was that no Board of Review hearings were held on the assessments reduction. Roman said there was no direct evidence Delaney had lied.

"If the mere fact that he represented her (during her testimony before the grand jury) was enough, most defense attorneys would be guilty of subornation of perjury," the judge said.

Roman said there was insufficient evidence to show that the contribution to the defense fund constituted bribery. He said he heard no evidence that linked Quinn to the other alleged conspirators.

Roman said the state was asking for a "technical acquittal" about Quinn's involvement. Quinn displayed no emotion when Roman announced the decision and later declined to comment, but Allen said his client was "obviously, very happy."

Allen called the prosecution "politically inspired."

Allen said one grand jury in 1984 heard evidence regarding Quinn and Delaney but did not indict them.

However, after State's Attorney Don W. Weber was defeated in his re-election bid in November 1984, a second grand jury which heard the same evidence indicted Delaney and Quinn, said Allen.

Allen said Quinn was targeted because he opposed the reelection of Weber, a Republican. Most Madison County officials are Democrats.

The prosecution chose not to call Delaney as a witness in the trial because she said she would "testify to the truth," Allen said.

Locher said he did not call Delaney as a witness because she had announced her intention to invoke her constitutional right against possible self-incrimination. Under Illinois procedure, an attorney is barred from calling a witness who has announced an intention to invoke the protection, he said.

Locher said he could have called Delaney only if he was willing to give her immunity from prosecution and he chose not to do so. Locher is appealing dismissal of bribery and perjury charges against Delaney last year, before the charges were taken to trial.

option, was rejected by the board. It was estimated at $215,000.

The other two designs, one that features a brick veneer and another that would be a metal building were estimated at $210,000 and $211,000 respectively.

The board also called for a contract to be negotiated between the district and Gabriel making Gabriel the lead architect for the shop and the parking lot. While the contract is being negotiated, Gabriel is to begin preliminary drawings.

The shop which is tentatively to be built for use this fall, will be an addition to a campus building used for vocational classrooms and the carpentry lab.

The plan includes construction of a temporary road around the building and a parking space increase at the Coolidge Junior High and high school gymnasium lots. Ron Landman, director of buildings and grounds, told board members the project should increase parking capacity at the two lots from 170 to 576 spaces.

The project is to be paid for out of money gained from the sale of district buildings.

Something To Think About

IS IT WISE TO PLAN MY OWN FUNERAL?

BOB THOMAS, Director

It was Earl of Warwick who said there is nothing more certain than death and nothing more uncertain than the time of dying. He would be prepared for death at all times, he states, and his preparedness would not make him die the sooner, but the better.

This individual insight is very enlightening and practical. We have pre-planned funerals with many members of our community who share some of these same sentiments. Many have expressed great relief in their foresightfulness. They say it's a comfort to know everything will be well-handled, and will cost no less and no more than you want it to be.

Rather than permit a third party to arrange things or cause your loved ones the anguish and painful burden of funeral decisions, you may wish to plan your own funeral down to the smallest details.

I thought planning a funeral ahead of time was crazy. Then Jim died.

Since he had insisted, we fortunately had our plans made. We even had money aside through a program at the funeral home. That made it easier for me to begin getting things together and to appreciate the many friends who came to call. There were 65 many other people that it helped not to plan a funeral. Take it from experience planning ahead is a good idea.

"OF COURSE he can peruse through it and get back with you, but I don't think it leaves us any recourse," the mayor said.

An analysis of the act reveals it stops virtually all regulation at the local level, the league counsel said. Under the guidelines, cities can't control fees, subscriber rates or programming, the mayor said, again quoting from Kelly's report.

Be alert for next month's article and read it and weep," Echols said. Franchise renewals and competition in the cable industry will be part of the follow-up report, along with litigation produced by the act, the mayor said.

total matched previously in Granite City by Rich Williams, Gary Simpson, Terry Ripka, Jeff Gray and Frank Knight.
"I sure never thought he would be that kind of a scorer," said Warriors coach Don Deterding.

ing after Saturday's game. "Oh, I knew he was a good player. He had a good freeman year. But he was just so small."

Although a twin of brother Jamie, Tim didn't quite get as much in the size department, so he's had to battle the odds a little more. But once he got a chance to play, he didn't mess it up.

"Scott Cant got hurt during my sophomore year, and I got in a game against Belleville West," Tim said. "I had some pretty good games that year."

"But I never even thought about 1,000 points back then. I just wanted to play."

He was turned loose last season and averaged almost 20 points per game as the Warriors went 25-4 to gain a share of the Southwestern Conference title. Tim's scoring is a little off this year, but he has assumed the point guard duties handled so well last year by Joe Gray.

"I was having a little trouble with that early in the year," Tim said. "But it's a lot better now. I'm getting so I can run the offense and still score."

"Timmy never even thought of role earlier," Deterding said. "That's one of the things that cost us some ball games. He got a little frustrated about it, but it's going much better now."

Hogan's point total stood at 984 heading into last Friday's game at Edwardsville, and Deterding didn't want him to know about the milestone, figuring he might press. But when he only got 10 points in the game, Deterding told him, figuring even a pressing Hogan could get six at East Side.

He got his fifth point, then missed four straight shots before connecting.

"I thought I had five points and was at 99," he said. "When I started missing, and I was thinking I didn't want another 10-point night."

He only got 13, but it was another win for the Warriors. He needs 90 points to catch Knight for fifth place and 139 to catch Jeff Gray.

"We're going to have to play more than one regional game for Timmy to get any higher on the list," Deterding said.

Meanwhile, the Warriors gun for the conference crown this weekend. Wins at home against Alton Friday and Belleville West Saturday would assure a share of the title, and an East St. Louis victory at home over Collinsville would give it to Granite City outright.

Both of the Warriors' opponents have losing records, but Deterding is taking nothing for granted.

"It's been a terrible week of practice so far," Deterding said Wednesday. "I gave them the day off Monday and we've had some nagging injuries, so it's never a good practice after they've been off a couple of days."

Jamie Hogan is still limping around on a bad leg and hadn't been able to practice through Wednesday.

"But he's a tough one, and I hope he's ready to go Friday," Deterding said. "He might not be ready Saturday, but I think he'll go Friday."

"Everybody is pretty tired right now. I tried to give them a break, so they could rest over the weekend, and Tom Taylor said they were so tired he didn't think it would do any good. But they want that conference title, so they'll be ready by the weekend. It's the last home games for the seniors, so that will help."

Deterding also said one victory would mean the senior class would average 20 wins per year for their four years of high school play.

Cougars win regional

MARK KENNY of the SIUE wrestling team battles Doug Parker of Wisconsin-Parkside in last weekend's NCAA Division II Midwest Regional. The Cougars won the regional and will send nine wrestlers to the national tournament, which will be held March 6-7 at the Vandalia Center at SIUE. Cougars who won gold medals are Tim Wright (118 pounds), Brian McTague (142), Kip Kristoff (150), Bob Dahm (158), Dwight Downs (177) and Kurt Bednar (190). The Cougars will also have three wild card selections at the meet: Robert Hall (126), Kenny (134) and Steve Harmon (167).

• Trojans

The Pioneers connected on three straight trips down the court, including a nice running hook shot from the side, as Assumption ran off nine straight points to take a 33-25 lead at halftime. Johnson hit a free throw to start the second half, but the Pioneers then ran off 14 straight points to take a 47-26 lead. Over a span of two quarters, Assumption outscored the Trojans 23-1. "This team has gotten better every game," said Pioneer coach Mike Kelleher. "Our consistency brought us along, and now I'm looking forward to more. Madison had a much better record than we did when we played them before (a 72-51 Trojan win Jan. 30), but we're back within a game of .500 now (12-13)."

"Even at 12-11, I thought we had been playing real good," Essington said. "But it comes down to playing hard, and we didn't do that tonight. If we can't get ready to play hard for the first game of the regional..."

Essington didn't finish the thought, but what might happen if you're not ready is you get outscored 23-1 in the middle portion of the game to transform a one-point lead into a 21-point deficit.

Act Four: The Trojans regrouped and closed the gap to 49-34 after three quarters, then came out smoking in the fourth quarter. They made 14 of 18 shots from the field and Johnson had 14 points himself. McCarthy made it 49-42 with five minutes left and 62-58 with with 36 seconds left, but the Pioneers made 12 of 14 free throws in the fourth quarter to hang on.

Johnson drove in to make it 63-60 with 16 seconds left, but Sean Mosby fouled out three seconds later and Stewart made the clinching pair of free throws.

"I'll give credit to Assumption," Essington said. "They handled everything well. But we had an attitude like we were better than we were. We go out there and just believe we're a lot better than a lot of teams. I thought this bunch could win for us this year."

"If everyone had tried as hard as Sean Mosby did, things might have been different. But the effort just wasn't there enough." The Pioneers will play Lebanon tonight in one semifinal game immediately following the Venice-Lovejoy game, which starts at 6:30. The title game will be Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Trojans finished the year with five straight losses and a 12-12 record. They dropped their final regular season game last Friday at Teutopolis, 57-57.

was satisfied with his team's effort. "The players gave their all tonight," he said. "Biehl is a workhorse and really played tough. With all their speed, we just couldn't match up." Lovejoy's win sets up an interesting rematch with Venice in the semifinals action tonight.

Their earlier meeting Jan. 23 in Brooklyn ended in a brawl, with Venice coach Clinton Harris pulling his team off the court before the first quarter ended.

Busch offering soccer camp

The Busch Soccer Club is offering a series of youth soccer camps directed by one of the sport's finest instructors, Frans Van Balkom, at one of the sport's finest facilities, St. Louis Soccer Park.

Open to boys and girls of high school age and under, the camps specialize in the Will Coerver method of soccer instruction. Coerver, a famed Dutch soccer coach, pioneered a method of soccer training that stresses development of individual skills by teaching players a series of moves with the ball. Van Balkom, who played professionally in Holland and Australia and has been the head coach of the national teams of four countries, learned the method directly from Coerver.

Camp dates for boys and girls under 12 are June 8-12, June 13-19 and June 22-26. Boys' sessions will be held in the morning and girls' sessions at night. A morning session for boys and girls over 12 is scheduled for July 6-10, and an all-day camp for high school-aged youths is set for July 13-17.

All sessions will use the St. Louis Soccer Park complex that includes six grass fields, two lighted artificial turf fields and a lighted grass stadium.

Fees are $60 for a week of morning or night sessions and $115 for a week of all-day sessions. For more information, write Busch Soccer Club, #1 Soccer Park Road, Fenton, Mo. 65026, or call 314-943-8110.

Jamie Hogan of Granite City has been selected to play for the West squad in the 13th Annual Illinois Coaches Association Shrine High School All-Star Football Game, scheduled for Aug. 1.

The game will be played at Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University in Normal.

Through the first 12 years, more than $300,000 has been raised for the Shrine hospitals and burn institutes from the game.

A committee of 21 district chairman met to select 88 players, who are nominated by their coaches and screened by the committee. Head coaches Bob Hight of Central Lake South (East) and Mike Tracey of Rock Island All-American (West) will greet the two squads when they report July 26 for the contest.

Tickets for the game can be ordered from All Star Football, Box 1331, Bloomington, Ill. 61701. Reserved seats will cost $5 and general admission is $3.50. Hogan caught 55 passes for 837 yards last season in leading the Warriors to their first Southwestern Conference title since 1946. He scored 11 touchdowns on the year and also intercepted five passes in one game.

Venice baseball signups March 9

Summer baseball signups for boys and girls teams will be held beginning March 9, it was announced by the Venice Park District.

Applications will be passed out for any child age 6 to 13 who wants to play baseball. The district is also asking for volunteers to coach teams.

Interested coaches are asked to call the Venice Recreation Center from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Ask for Robert Wiggall, Arnold Johnson or Charles Collins.

Soccer tryouts this weekend

Tryouts for the Granite City Soccer Club will be held on Saturday, Feb. 28, at 1 p.m. and Sunday, March 1, at 2 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Soccer Field.

The team is for boys born in 1974 and will play in the Illinois Youth Soccer Association beginning this spring. For more information, call 931-1256.

Register now for softball

The Granite City Park District is organizing Softball leagues for play this summer. Organizational meetings have been held and teams are registering in the Wilson Park Office.

Steve Kessel, director of parks and recreation, asks that any team that was a part of the park district leagues during the past season to please register the team for this season.

Even though the entry fee is not paid at that time, it is very necessary that the team register in order to know the number of teams that will be participating. Leagues must be set up and the new teams on a waiting list will be placed in the areas where there are openings.

Anyone wishing to manage a new team may call or stop in the office for information or to be placed on the list. This applies to all leagues — men's, women's, church, high school girls, and school boys and junior high leagues.

Girl Scouts to mark 75 years of serving public

In 1987, Girl Scouts will celebrate their 75th anniversary with the theme "Tradition with a Future." Throughout the year, nearly 12,000 Girl Scouts in the Metro East Area will participate in special projects emphasizing "the rich tradition of Girl Scouting as well as the exciting future that awaits today's girls."

The anniversary projects include "time-travel" activities. The River Bluffs Council will explore the history of Girl Scouting by researching and compiling a 75th anniversary commemorative cookbook/craft book. Recipes and craft directions may be submitted by former Girl Scouts, leaders or troops. Entries are due at the council office by March 31. The cookbook will be available for purchase in late spring for $10.99. In addition to the Cookbook/Craft Book, four anniversary quilts depicting 75 years of history will be made from troop entries. The quilt squares will be judged at St. Clair Square during Girl Scout Week, March 8-14.

Service to others is a tradition in Girl Scouting and the 75th year will also be celebrated by giving gifts of service to the community. Troops will participate in a collection drive for abused and neglected children and will take part in a council-wide beautification project.

The year-round festivities will kick off on March 12, the Girl Scout birthday, when members and friends will join together in a special ceremony highlighting the Girl Scout Promise. The event will take place at Scott Air Force Base from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

For more information or an invitation to the 75th anniversary kickoff celebration on March 12, the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council can be contacted at 692-0692, 345-1606, 632-6404, 254-5983 or 452-0692.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED

Attorney At Law

A criminal suspect in police custody cannot be questioned as to matters that might tend to incriminate him without being read his Miranda rights. He must be warned that he has the right to remain silent, that any statement he makes may be used against him, and that he has the right to an attorney. In some instances, a defendant can waive his Miranda rights and confess to a crime.

Sometimes, a question later arises as to whether the confession was voluntary. An important requirement is that the defendant's confession be given freely, voluntarily, and without any compulsion or inducement. Whether or not a confession is found by the Court to be voluntary will depend in part on the physical and mental condition of the defendant at the time of the confession. Two recent cases will help illustrate what test is used to determine if a confession is voluntary.

In one case, a person accused of murder was hospitalized after twice attempting suicide by slashing his wrists. The defendant was given an injection of a tranquilizer used for psychosis because he was felt to be acutely suicidal. Seven hours after the injection, the defendant was interviewed by police and advised of his Miranda rights. The defendant appeared to be alert and responsive and did not appear to be under the influence of the drug. The defendant later contended that his confession should be suppressed because he was interrogated shortly after his two suicide attempts.

In another case, the defendant was on medication needed to control his severe headaches. Five hours after his arrest for attempted murder, the defendant confessed to the shooting. The defendant subsequently asked the Court to suppress his confession. He contended that his failure to obtain his headache medication while in police custody caused him to become confused and disoriented. Therefore, he felt that his confession was involuntary.

In both cases, the Courts allowed the confessions to stand. The Courts noted that there was no evidence that the officers coerced the confessions by either offering treatment or threatening to withhold treatment if the defendant did not confess. In such instances, courts will consider the testimony of police that the defendant appeared to be calm and alert and appeared to have understood his Miranda rights at the time of his confession.

Compassion topic of Outreach director

Compassion in the workplace means service without ownership, Sister Mary Simpson told the more than 700 gathered at the 22nd annual mayor's prayer breakfast in Belleville last week.

"The professional server must keep striving to create the space in which he or she and the client can reach out to each other as companions, sharing the same broken, human condition," said Sister Mary, director of Belleville Area College's Outreach Service, a part of the school's Programs and Services for Older Persons.

Compassion is not pity or preoccupation with pain, she said. "Compassion works from a strength born of awareness of our shared weakness and moves in service to support that weakness."

Sister Mary serves on numerous boards, including Belleville Hospice, Diocesan Board for Permanent Diaconate and Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging.

Spring sunrise to be observed

The public is being invited to a spring equinox sunrise ceremony on Sunday, March 22, at 6:02 a.m. at the reconstructed Woodhenge sun calendar at Cahokia Mounds Historic Site on Collinsville Road, east of Illinois 111.

The equinox marks the midpoint between winter and summer, and day and night are of equal length.

The prehistoric Indians of Cahokia Mounds kept track of the solstices and equinoxes by building a calendar system using a large circle of posts.

When the sun rises on the equinox, it aligns with a cedar post on the eastern perimeter of the calendar circle and the large Monks Mound a half-mile away. As the sun emerges, it seems as if the sun is rising from the mound.

The Cahokia Mounds Museum Society will offer a complimentary breakfast of hot drinks and doughnuts. The museum can be contacted at 344-5288.

A HAPPY REUNION of friends Yin Mei, left, of the People's Republic of China, and Dr. Alice Purdes of Madison.

Travelers hear Yin Mei

Yin Mei, a citizen of the People's Republic of China, is currently the guest of Dr. Alice Purdes and Miss Betty Townsend. The three met in 1982 while Purdes and Townsend were scholarship students in China studying that country's culture and educational system under the auspices of Kent State University and the University of Virginia.

While in the Quad City Area, Yin Mei was guest speaker at Travelers Abroad, where she also renewed past acquaintanceships with Barbara Williams and Marguerite Lexow. Travelers Abroad members who also visited China. Through the correspondence of Dr. Purdes and the Chinese, a meeting was arranged whereby the Americans met Yin Mei and her schoolmates during a 1983 visit to Xian, China, by Williams and Lexow.

Yin Mei spoke to the student body at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, where she visited the classes of Dr. Purdes.

After a week in the Quad Cities, Yin Mei will accompany Purdes to Chicago, where they will be guest lecturers at the New Trier Township Teachers' Conference. Their topic will be "Occident vs. Orient."

Purdes said, "Since the 1949 Communist takeover and the Cultural Revolution, China and its people have made significant progress in education and in westernizing their civilization. By visiting China and observing first-hand the educational system and the cultural influence of this ancient civilization, it is possible to compare and contrast it with our own way of living and educating."

The focus of Yin Mei's and Purdes' lectures will be on what American educators can learn from the educational system in China.

While in Chicago, Purdes and Yin Mei will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Schmidt of Glenview, Ill. After a weekend stay in the Chicago area, Yin Mei will return to Washington, D.C., where her husband, Hong Wei, is a doctoral candidate in economics at Georgetown University.

Madison schools launch drug prevention program

MADISON — School District 12 has declared war on drug abuse with the help of a grant obtained from the Department of Alcohol and Substance Abuse of the State of Illinois.

The grant was written by a drug prevention committee spearheaded by Sue Borstein, social worker, and Robert Mehlich, assistant principal of Madison High School.

The committee is composed of a cross-section of the community: school board, Billie Bosworth; community, Shirley Creek; administration, Daniel Kosteski, District 12 superintendent, and Robert Mehlich, assistant principal, Madison High School; faculty, Kathleen Guinan, Middle School, Mark Jiles, Madison High School, and Sue Borstein, social worker; students, Quincy Williams and Alanna Browley of Madison High School and Paschen Horton and Anthony Wilson of Madison Middle School.

"Prevention is everyone's business. The entire community must be concerned about the immediate and long-range health and social consequences of alcohol and drug use by its young people," a spokesman said.

Unit 12 believes we can't be "lone rangers" and work in isolation. We must function as a team, forming powerful alliances for change and working together.

"Parents, teachers, schools, students, community organizations, health services providers, businesses, and local government must band together for a change in the community to make a difference in our children's futures."

"Madison's prevention program is based on the following research findings:

- "The community must change its attitudes and behavior toward drug and alcohol use. Efforts aimed at young people work best where all systems that impact on their lives work in concert. Messages given by the various systems must be consistent. Prevention is best done at the local level where the community works together. Prevention takes time; it is a long-range commitment on the part of everyone involved. The academic strategies will seek to provide practical, workable strategies to school personnel to prevent and intervene in students' alcohol and drug problems. A teacher team — Mark Jiles, Madison High School, Albert Collins, Madison Middle School, Gladys Steptoe, Louis Baer School, Tharon Bilheimer, Harris School, and Barbara Cox, Blair — will attend a 3-day A.S.A.P. Institute in March at the Daybreak Institute of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville. The team will develop strategies and written plans for Unit 12.
- An Operation Snowflake on Saturday, April 25, is the third prong of the prevention program. The theme, "Make the M.O.S.T. (Madison Operation, Snowflake Teen) of your Life," is the focus of the event sponsored by the Madison Middle School in cooperation with Piasa Health Care. Kathleen Guinan and Sue Borstein are co-chairmen of the event.
- "Just Say No" clubs, kindergarten through fifth grade, will begin in mid-April. Mark Jiles is chairman of this area.
- The final concern will be a review of the present alcohol/drug policy by Robert Mehlich and his committee to determine the scope and comprehensiveness of the district's drug/alcohol policy.

Parents and the community are being asked to support and join the In Touch program. Everyone is asked to "be in touch with our concern for our youth. Be in touch with the skills and resources each has to offer and be in touch with neighbors to effect change."

"If our strengths and energies are combined, we will have taken the first step in prevention of youths in Madison from using drugs and alcohol," the committee said.

On March 5, Jim Gallagher, director of Mental Health Services (children, adolescents and adults) at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, will address "What's Normal, What's Not in Our Children."

"Why kids start using drugs and alcohol?" and "How do you know if they are using?" are the questions answered by Jean Schram, director of Prevention Services of Piasa Health Care of Madison County, and Richard Ballaw, juvenile officer of the Madison Police Department, on March 12.

Sandy DeStefano, parent enrichment coordinator of Family Resources, will help parents to "Help Kids Feel Good About Themselves" on March 19.

On the last Thursday, March 26, Mike and Lisa Bell of Wood River, organizers of the Illinois Community Drive Education Alliance, will share ideas on how parents can make the difference in their own community and neighborhood.

TOMMY / IT'S TIME FOR BED.
DON'T FORGET TO SAY
YOUR PRAYERS.

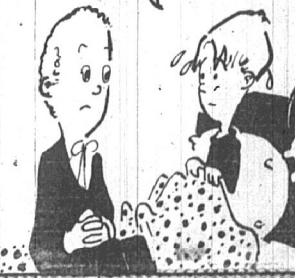

NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP
I PRAY THE LORD MY SOUL TO KEEP,
GOD BLESS MOMMY, DADDY,
AND REV JACK. AND GOD-
MAKE DISNEYLAND
THE CAPITOL OF THE UNITED STATES

I KNOW GOD HEARS YOU TOMMY,
BUT WHY DID YOU ASK HIM
TO MAKE DISNEYLAND
THE CAPITOL?

'CAUSE THAT'S THE ANSWER
I PUT ON MY GEOGRAPHY TEST
TODAY.

Spring Opera Season Unveiled

Opera Theater of St. Louis will offer four operas during its 1987 spring season, which opens on May 22 at the Loretto Hilton Theatre on the Webster University campus.

The 12-year old company is in its second season under the leadership of general director Charles Mackay, artistic director Colin Graham and music director John Nelson.

The season opens with a new production of "Carmen," directed by Colin Graham, designed by John Conklin and conducted by Richard Buckley.

The opera, which uses spoken dialogue, will draw on original source material for a fresh look at the romantic French masterpiece.

"Alicia," the company's first venture into the Handel repertoire, follows on May 26. It will be conducted by John Nelson and directed by Stephen Wadsworth, who is making his first appearance with Opera Theater.

"Alicia" was one of Handel's greatest triumphs at its premiere. Its revival in England was one of the first major successes for the young Joan Sutherland. The opera will be designed by Tom Lynch and Dunya Ramkova.

Rossini's "Cinderella" opens June 5. James McGuire and Kenneth Cox return to Opera Theater, with designer Neil Peter Jampolis and conductor Joseph Rescigno. Director Francesca Zambello makes her St. Louis debut with the opera.

Stephen Oliver's fairy tale, "Beauty and the Beast," was acclaimed at its 1984 world premiere in Italy, where the Batignano Festival audience moved about an ancient cloister to follow the orchestra from scene to scene.

However, Graham will leave the St. Louis audience in place. The libretto is the text of the 1756 version of the story by Mme. LeFrince de Beaumont. Like "Cinderella," "Beauty and the Beast" is the tale of a mezzo heroine with two greedy sisters. She falls in love with her captor, an enchanted beast.

Oliver's work should be a magical, musical event. The conductor is Hal France and the designer is Marie Anne Chiment. Donald Palumbo is Opera Theater's chorus master and Stephen Lord is head of the music staff. The lighting designer for all productions is Peter Kaczorowski.

Members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra play in the pit. All operas are sung in English. For ticket and subscription information, call the Opera Theater of St. Louis box office at 314-961-0644.
